
Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by Leena - 2008/05/16 04:42

Hi,

I am using Joomla 1.5 for my website and for menu's I have tried you extension, Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

I must say it is a wonderful module and does what I want. But, I am facing one problem and wanted to know if that could be solved.

When I enable this module for all pages, images show properly on default joomla home page "frontpage", but on all other pages, it shows white instead of image(no image).

I also tried installing horizontal version Of Kwickstart and that works fine on everypage, I am facing problem only with vertical menus.

I will appreciate if I can get answer for this and is there any way I can fix it?

I am testing this Joomla site on WAMP server. Apart from this module I also have modules as: SWMENUfREE. I tried disabling "swmenufree" just to check if that is interfering with .css settings.

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by dennysp - 2008/05/16 06:41

Hello Leena,

I'm tried the module in my localhost and I also enable this module for all pages there is no problem i found. I also try install swMenuFree component and there is no problem too.

Have you check the image configuration at administration page?

or maybe the images at folder \modules\mod_kwickverti_slidingmenu\kwickverti_slidingmenu\images\ have been deleted so the image cannot be shown?

If still can't be shown, try to download our latest Kwick vertical sliding menu at download area and then uninstall the old module and then install with the new one. I hope it will work properly because I have tried it in my localhost and no problem found.

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by Topoman - 2008/05/19 13:13

The problem is the reference to image in mod_kwik_verti_slidingmenu.php the lines where references to url of image must have a "/" in the begin.

Example:

Original code:

```
#menu .opt1 {
    background: url(modules/mod_kwickverti_slidingmenu/kwickverti_slidingmenu/images/);
}
```

Modified code:

```
#menu .opt1 {
    background: url(/modules/mod_kwickverti_slidingmenu/kwickverti_slidingmenu/images/);
}
```

Repeat it for all menu items.

The line modified in the example is the 79 of the file.

Grate module.

Sorry my English, is not my native language.

:P

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by dennysp - 2008/05/19 13:28

@Topoman

Thank you for your attention and your help, your english is not bad and the most important things is your explanation can be understand by people who read it.

@Leena

You can also try the solution given by Topoman

Regards,

dennysp

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by Leena - 2008/05/22 06:07

Hi there,

Thanks, I tried this solution but didn't work.

Problem was because I had SEF (Search ENGINE Froendly) urls 'on', interestingly when I turned it off images did show on all pages.

But i also wanted SEF unred 'on' for my site. Thanks to your suggestion as it made me think in that direction. Images path should have been relative.

So, I tried putting "../" infront of module on line 79 like:

```
url(../modules/mod_kwickverti_slidingmenu/kwickverti_slidingmenu/images/);
```

and that worked!!!

thanks for your time and inputs.

and yes your english is not bad at all. You did convey your point well which, helped me solve this issue.

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by camp26team - 2008/05/22 06:27

thanks for your sharing Leena. we happy about that and yes your english is not bad at all.

yes we are really sorry about that. we will learn and upgrade our english step by step;)

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by leena - 2008/05/22 07:53

Hi,

I have one more question: currently the links that are associated with buttons open in same window, is there any way I can have them open in new window?

Thanks

=====

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by Leena - 2008/05/22 23:22

Hi,

One more question on this topic:
Currently links associated with menu buttons open in self (same window) is there any way to have it open in new window?

thanks,

=====

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by camp26team - 2008/05/23 02:25

Hello Leena,
Thanks for your sharing,
Lets you know, Denny was updated that module, so you able to setup from module paramaters.

As i know, he was uploaded for Joomla 1.0.x (for Joomla 1.5.x under progress), so please re-download that

=====

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by dennysp - 2008/05/23 03:57

Yes, I just updated the module for Joomla 1.0.x and for Joomla 1.5.x, now you can download it from free download area

regards,

dennysp

=====

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by Leena - 2008/05/26 01:03

Thanks DannySP,

Really appreciate your help. This is fantastic, and the support is so good.
Just one input I will like to give: I don't know if others have faced this problem. But I have another menu (swmenfree) on left side of certain height. Once I enabled the new Kwickstart menu (updated with new target window)on right side, menu on other side(left) is getting adjusted to this "kwickstart menu" height.

compared last two: mod_kwickverti_slidingmenu.php files and found code change here on line 40 of new file:

```
$total_menuitems = $status1 + $status2 + $status3 + $status4 + $status5 + $status6 + $status7 + $status8;
```

I changed this line back to:

```
$total_menuitems = 0;
```

```
if ($status1 == true AND $status2 == true AND $status3 == true AND $status4 == true AND $status5 == true AND $status6 == true AND $status7 == true AND $status8 == true)
```

```
$total_menuitems .= 1;
```

and things are working fine. Don't know if I did right thing. Pl. advice.

Thanks,

Leena

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by dennysp - 2008/05/26 02:29

Did you check your site in IE7? I made that change for fixing the bug found in IE7.
For your problem, I think because both of them have the same so the definition in swMenuFree will read the definition from Kwick Vertical. I have fixed that problem and you can download again from free download area. I hope no error found again :)

regards,
dennysp

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by Leena - 2008/05/26 03:32

Hi there,

Thanks a bunch! this is awesome, it works great. You was right that was css div name that was clashing.

Have one more question, just out of curiosity. Don't know if it is right to post it here.

On your site: http://www.camp26.com/component/option,com_remository/Itemid,0/func,select/id,1/

This link has files sortable by Files

Order By : ID | File Title | Downloads | Submit Date | Submitter id

Wondering how you have got that. Did you customize Joomla database for this output. Is there any third party sort extrn available for this.

I want to implement similar feature for my site, but couldn't do it so just thought to ask.

Thanks,
Leena

Re:Regarding Kwick Vertical Sliding Menu J!1.5

Posted by dennysp - 2008/05/26 05:07

We not make any customization for that, that's default from Remository Component Installation
